

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Addresses of contributors	4
Editorial Preface	7
Part 1. The southern and western parts of the city of Carthage: cemeteries, a bath and the circus
The necropoleis of the imperial slaves and freedmen in the deathscape of Roman Carthage Jesper Carlsen	9
From bathhouse to cemetery: the transformation of suburban space at Bir el Jebbana, Carthage Jeremy Rossiter and E. Pennefather-O'Brien	28
Appendix: Osteological report on skeletal remains from the graves mentioned E. Pennefather-O'Brien
A note on the earlier American excavations in the circus and associated bibliography to date J. H. Humphrey	39
The SW quarter of Carthage and its main monument: new results on the topographical context, construction and development of the circus, based on fieldwork in 2015-17 R. Bockmann, H. Ben Romdhane, F. Schön, I. Fumadó Ortega, M. Broisch, with S. Cespa, E. Jerray, B. Maraoui Telmini, N. Röring, Y. Sghaier & H. Töpfer	50
An excavation at the western edge of Carthage and a new proposal for the location of the fort (castrum) Gary J. Evans	75
Introducing two papers on finds from the excavations in the Yasmina cemetery at Carthage Naomi J. Norman	88
The memory of a favorite racehorse: a disc of the horse Alumnus from the Yasmina cemetery at Carthage in the context of other circus-related iconography Christopher Gregg	93
The numismatic finds from the Yasmina cemetery Liane Houghtalin and John D. Mac Isaacs	115
Part 2. Pottery, brickstamps and lamps from several sites at Carthage
Terra sigillata norditalica decorata (Aco-Becher und Sarius-Schalen) aus den Ausgrabungen des Deutschen Archäologischen Instituts in Karthago with Postscript: The earliest phases of Roman Carthage Sebastian Schmid	163
Building Roman Carthage: brickstamps in the Musée National de Carthage Jeremy Rossiter	179
A pottery deposit of c.A.D. 425-460 from the Danish excavations at the north edge of the city of Carthage John Lund, with contributions by E. Poulsen	197
Pottery lamps from Trinity University's excavation on the Odeon Hill at Carthage Jeremy Rossiter, with a note by M. B. Garrison	275
Lamps from an American excavation of an extramural cemetery of Vandalic date at Carthage, here republished with colour plates and with addenda Jeremy Rossiter	287
Part 3. Two historical-archaeological studies in and around Carthage
Farmers, families and the city: urban development in the pertica region of Roman Carthage Paul Scheduling	306
Loci sancti Carthagine : the presence of saints in communal worship and private piety (5th-7th c.) Susan T. Stevens	327